

Rothstein Kass

CASE STUDY COMPETITION at the University of California, Santa Barbara

Think. Share. Execute. Learn.

Demonstrate your knowledge of accounting and win $500 from Rothstein Kass, a leading national public accounting firm specializing in the financial services arena and consistently ranked as a top service provider in the alternative investment industry. This is an outstanding opportunity to advance your career and to experience what it will be like to work on a real-life engagement.

COMPETITION DETAILS

Rothstein Kass proudly invites all University of California, Santa Barbara students interested in a career in accounting to participate in a case study competition.

The case study will focus on business development and accounting related challenges for a fictitious CPA firm. Competition participants will be tasked with forming a team of two, analyzing the case and providing a conclusion based on your analysis. Comprehensive case study information, competition specifics and prize details will be shared at the kickoff event to be held on February 7th.

PRIZE: $500 for the winning team, plus a trip in June 2012 to our business summit in New York City to compete for the Grand Prize, all expenses paid.

GRAND PRIZE: $3,000

About Rothstein Kass

Rothstein Kass was founded just over half a century ago, in 1959, as a boutique, two-person accounting firm with a one-room office. Today, it has grown into a top-ranked, premier professional services firm serving privately held and publicly traded companies as well as high-net-worth individuals and families. Rothstein Kass has approximately 1,000 team members in seven offices across the country. Beyond audit and tax, the firm provides a full array of integrated advisory services, including strategic business counseling, insurance and risk management consulting and family office services. According to "Inside Public Accounting", Rothstein Kass is the 22nd largest accounting firm in the United States.
