Undergraduate Finance Summer Internship

Amgen's 10 – 12 week internship program offers meaningful project experiences that impact patient's lives. This internship provides the opportunity for executive and social networking events and to participate in community volunteer projects while providing a competitive compensation. Limited relocation housing and/or transportation allowance may be available for eligible candidates.

Finance summer interns will be assigned relevant projects that align with Amgen's strategic goals and provide cross-functional exposure. Projects may include but are not limited to: product discounting strategy, pipeline molecule valuation, resource allocation strategies, variance analyses and/or industry benchmarking analyses.

Additional responsibilities may include the following:

Supporting various Finance departments on tasks such as monthly close, monthly forecasting, and ad-hoc projects related to Amgen's overall business operations. Interns may support Global Commercial Operations, Research & Development, Operations, Corporate, Treasury, Tax, or Global Business Solutions Finance Organizations. Interns also participate in an intensive one-week case study where they gain exposure to all aspects of Amgen's business in a team environment.
